

A HE AND COLLET

LANGDON. One hundred and sixty million euros.

SOPHIE. One hundred and sixty million euros get destroyed?

Put down your gun, or I will destroy it.

Sophie presses harder against the canvas.

COLLET. Okay. Okay.

Collet puts her gun down.

SOPHIE. Robert... [get the gun].

*Langdon stands, takes the gun. He's never held a gun before.
It shows.*

COLLET. Is this worth ending your career for?

SOPHIE. I hope so.

Sophie and Langdon exit.

Collet spots and picks up the UV light. Shines it around.

Static from Collet's radio.

FACHE. (Broken static.) Collet?... Where are you?

COLLET. Captain?

FACHE. Where are you?

COLLET. I went back to the gallery.

FACHE. I've just caught up with the GPS dot.

He threw it out of the window, onto the back of the truck.

COLLET. Yes but—

FACHE. Which means Langdon must be guilty. Why else would he run?

COLLET. He didn't run. He was still there with Sophie Neveu. Looking at paintings.

FACHE. Looking at paintings? Like tourists?

COLLET. If Robert Langdon really did kill this man, why would they—

FACHE. So where are they now?

COLLET. They got away.

FACHE. Where? Where are they going?

COLLET. I don't—

Collet's UV light catches:

SO DARK THE CON OF MAN

FACHE. Collet? Get here now.

COLLET. No. You need to get back here. We missed something.

Scene 8

A modern bank vault. Security cameras. Claustrophobic.

Vernet, the bank manager, midconversation:

VERNET. ...But I can assure you, your possessions are quite safe. Even if someone were to get in, the system would lock down immediately and they would be trapped...for as long as the oxygen lasts.

Langdon alarmed at that prospect.

You don't seem reassured, monsieur.

LANGDON. Where are the actual deposit boxes?

VERNET. This is your first visit?

LANGDON. / No.

SOPHIE. / Yes.

Vernet maintains professionalism, despite her suspicions.

We have a key.

VERNET. Evidently.

Perhaps I should remind you of the process of accessing your deposit box.

(Indicating computer/system.) You insert your key here. Once the computer confirms its legitimacy, you enter your account number and your deposit box will be brought to you from the vault below.

LANGDON. By you?

VERNET. It is done robotically. As you know.

SOPHIE. You mentioned an account number...